

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An application identifier (AID) comprises at least one customization parameter for an application to be installed onto a smart card. The application may be installed onto the smart card by providing the AID, instantiating the application onto the smart card, storing the AID onto the card, and configuring the application in accordance with the stored AID, wherein the application is configured in accordance with the at least one customization parameter.